

Farewell and Hello!

We hope that the new learning tools you've gotten from this course will help you for the rest of your life. We will always continue to be a team together, so let's not think of this as a parting, but rather as a new, joint beginning for wonderful learning lives in the future. We have already met with some of you in our travels, and we look forward to meeting many more of you in the future—we would like it very much if you might come up and say hello!

A Shout Out to Coursera

We would like to give a great shout out to the wonderful people at Coursera. It's hard to communicate how dedicated the people at Coursera are to making high quality education materials available around the world, most especially for the disadvantaged. This isn't just lip service—we've watched them work tirelessly behind the scenes, for example, to provide top quality, free education for people who live in some of the world's most dangerous situations. And they've gone way above and beyond to bring you the best experience possible (even reading through our drafts late in the evenings and catching Barb's mistakes!). Corporations like Coursera provide an invaluable service to humankind—we're grateful for their leadership and extraordinary civic-mindedness.

As always, happy learning!

Barb Oakley, Terry Sejnowski and the Learning How to Learn Team